ANNOUNCES CONTEST . . . Robert E. Palmer, senior vice president of Food Fair in California, has announced a March contest at all Food Fair markets. The contest marks Food Fair's anniversary. Contestants may enter at any Food Fair Market without purchase. Top prizes include a new car, an organ, and a color television set.

Principals of the city's four high schools will attend the annual conference of the California Association of Secondary School Administrators April 11 to 13 in Los Angeles. Attending the conference will be Dr. Carl R. Ahee of Torrance High, Dr. Robert R. Ford of West High, Dr. Richard D. Guengerich of North High, and Dr. John A. Lucas of South High.

Food Fair Markets to Mark Anniversary With Contest

Thousands of valuable prizes will be given away to residents of California and Nevada during March by Food Fair Markets, according to Robert E. Palmer, senior vice president of the chain in California.

Television, screen, and recording stars will appear at Food Fair markets and free samples and food demonstrations will be given to customers. Weekly prizes and a grand prize drawing are planned.

Palmer said the festivities are in connection with Food Fair's anniversary sale. The chain, which began with one store in 1920, is now the nation's fifth largest food chain.

Contestants may register for the drawings at any Food Fair Market. There is no obligation and no need to purchase anything, Palmer said.

Prizes to be given away include a Rambler Ambassador convertible, a Thomas oragan, diamond-studded gold watch, gas range, color television, sewing machine, portable typewriter, fishing kit, hair dryer, dishwasher, and hundreds of baskets filled with groceries.

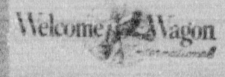

Food Fair will have special bargain prices on many items during the anniversary sale.

Palmer said the market's philosophy is to provide products and services of the highest quality at the lowest possible price. "We are a service company," he said.
