Bringing Up Baby.

HINTS COLLECTED BY MRS. DAN GERBER, MOTHER OF 5

Not so long ago, an article in a leading newspaper stated that sweet mother-talk was deemed essential for a child's well-being. Isn't it nice to know that the billing and cooing you choose to use to communicate with your baby help his mental development and strengthen his sense of security?

A word from Dan Gerber. "Gerber Research reaches into many realms . . . even to the packaging that protects your baby's food. For example, over the years, numerous experiments were conducted to produce cereal packages that would not only protect the delicate flavor of the cereals but also the food values so important to your baby. When you buy Gerber, you're sure of your money's worth in nourishment."

Both reminder. Drying baby thoroughly after his bath is as important as getting him clean. Moisture left in deep creases may cause irritation. By the bye, bath-time is a great time for babbling gaily to your "swimmer." Doubles his splashing enjoyment; puts you in a joyful frame of mind.

Rock this one up. An inexpensive spice rack, hung over baby's bath tub, makes a dandy, handy, easy-to-reach holder for lotion, powder, cotton, swabs, pins, etc.

Up-smocking lunch or scrumptious supper. That's what baby will have when you utilize his appetite with Gerber High Meat Dinners. Savory? Of course. They have 3 times as much succulent meat as regular vegetable and meat combinations. Flavor? Very. The addition of garden vegetables gives them a wonderfully perky flavor. Veal, Chicken, Turkey, Beef or Ham.

P.S. As a special treat, why not top off baby's high meat dinner with the newest Gerber delectable: Cherry-Vanilla Pudding. Gerber® Baby Foods, Box 72, Fremont, Michigan.
