Employee Awarded La Croix

Raymond E. Sydenstricker, field engineer for the General Telephone Co's South Bay division, was one of four company employees to win a La Croix award for courage and quick thinking.

Sydenstricker distinguished himself by rescuing a father and son from the sea at Brewster, Cape Cod. The man, John Mookley, and his son, Dickie, had been walking across tidal flats in the area when a treacherous tide caught them unawares. Tons of sea water raced toward the beach and strong undertows commenced carrying them in to the ocean.

With no knowledge of the depth of the water or the currents he might encounter, Sydenstricker risked his own life to plunge into the surf and saved the two.

THE FIELD engineer was presented the Silver Medal and $1,000 cash at the Beverly Hilton Hotel in Beverly Hills, by Parker Sullivan, president of the utility. He became the fourth General of California employee to be so honored since the La Croix program was launched some 10 years ago.

Other award recipients were Bill E. McNee, plants methods administrator, Santa Monica, who received the Bronze Medal and $250 in cash; Newell O. Sharp, equipment maintenance, Ontario, and Harold W. Capron, service center foreman, Orange division.
