Neville Brand, television's lent to the Nielsen Ratings), professional "tough guy," ap-parently isn't strong enough television series made the top to withstand the "personal differences" he has encoun-tered with the producers of "Laredo." He has resigned as steading youngsters filmed one of the three stars of the NBC series. This season, "Laredo" has the few honest 'Westerns' on escaped the corral of the television, It ranked as Num-is considered to be one of the country's most talented and dedicated actors — an evalu-ation shared heartily by Cobb —and he was replaced this season by Charles Bickford. With Brand, Cobb, and Roberts in the same show, what producer or director could resist—running in the other direction, that is, Tele-vision Hollywood Style is now operated as an extremely complicated and exacting as-sembly line. It's no place for a rugged individualist. I sus-pect, and that's the viewer's loss, I'm certain. AT LAST someone has de-
