First College Buildings Under Way in Dominguez

Grading has begun for the first permanent buildings at Cal-State, Dominguez Hills. Dr. Robert M. Bersi, assistant to the college president announced this week. Preliminary grading began a day before the last rain forced a temporary delay on the $1,773,539 project by the J. A. Campbell Construction Co. of Long Beach.

Completion of the first increment is scheduled for September, 1968. Capacity will be 600 students. Presently the school's enrollment is 400 and students are housed in temporary facilities west of the construction site.

The initial buildings will be one story structures utilizing laminated wood, concrete block and glass. They will house a library, classrooms, administrative offices and laboratories. When other sections of the campus are completed the first buildings will become a "small college" within the larger one.

Master architects for the project are A. Quincy Jones, FAIA, and Frederick E. Emmons, AIA.

High school student teachers include Bonnie Baker, Eda Colley, Jacqueline Moore, and Michael Simmons, South High School; Brenda Jones and Alice Perkin, Torrance High School; Richard Kingsbury, Lucia Ramirez, Enriqueta Valencia, and Will Field, North High School; and Jean Terry, West High School. Love Wharton is serving as student teacher at both South and Torrance High Schools.

Elementary school student teachers are: Sharon Barnes, Zorie Connors, Karen Pirslen, Carole Schmohl, and Gladys Shelver, Fern Greenwood School; Michael Hare and Michelle Kaufman, Flavian Elementary School; Mary Hedrick and Kathleen Hubbard, Levy Elementary School; and Carol Hardesty, Patricia McKevitt, and Sally Shafer, Hickory Elementary School.

Del Amo Will Be Extended

Del Amo Boulevard will be extended between Wayne and Prospect avenues. The Torrance City Council has accepted in principle a proposal for the improvement submitted by the city's engineering department.

Ron Beckman, senior civil engineering assistant, said that the recommendation calls for complete improvement, including paved roadway, sidewalks, curbs, gutters, a retaining wall, and drainage facilities.

Estimated total cost for the project is $200,000. The city of Redondo Beach will pay $20,000 for a traffic signal at the corner of Prospect and Del Amo, and the city of Torrance will pay the remainder.

Noted Architect Will Speak at Planning Event

"Planning for the City of Tomorrow" will be topic of noted architect-planner Edgardo Contini when he addresses a luncheon to be sponsored by the Torrance League of Women Voters Jan. 10.

The luncheon will follow a bus tour of the city and is part of a day-long program on urban planning.

Charles Shartle, director of planning for the city, and James Hagaman, senior planner, will serve as narrators on the citywide tour. They will point out the city's development patterns, diversity of land uses, problem areas, and discuss prospects for the future during the tour.

BUSES WILL load at 9:45 a.m. at the upper parking area of the Del Amo Financial Center.

Invitations have been sent to more than 500 city officials and civic and business leaders in Torrance and neighboring cities, according to Mrs. James van Oppen, president of the Torrance League of Women Voters.

"Planning for the dynamic growth of Torrance and the interrelationships of cities in the planning process should be matters of community-wide involvement and concern," Mrs. van Oppen said.

"We hope to stimulate such interest by bringing all segments of the community together for an exchange of ideas," she added.

CONTINI, a partner in Victor Gruen Associates, is best known here as the designer of the Del Amo Financial Center, which is being developed by Victor Gruen Associates and Great Lakes Properties, Inc.

He is a graduate of the University of Rome and completed graduate studies at the New School for Social Research in New York. He served in the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers during World War II and for two years was associated with the architectural firm of Albert Kahn in Detroit.

Contini planned the successful downtown revitalization projects in Rochester, N. Y., and Fresno and is currently a member of the Panel of Visitors for the Urban Design Program at the UCLA School of Architecture. He also is serving as a visiting critic on the USC Faculty of Architecture.

The planning seminar is open to the public, Mrs. van Oppen said. Reservations, which must be made before Jan. 3, may be made by calling 320-5301.

When the suspects fled, Geges ran outside and fired two shots as they drove off, police said. It is not known if either of the two men was injured.

Torrance police said the shooting took place about 1 p.m. Monday in the living room of the couple's mobile home, Knolls Trailer Park, 23701 S. Western, space 193.

When police arrived, they found Bonfield on the floor, barely conscious, with his head propped up on the sofa. He was bleeding from the bullet wound on the left side of his chest.
