Knights Win 7th Straight

A highly accurate shooting performance by Bishop Montgomery High enabled the varsity to trample third place Crespi, 84-49, in Camino Real League action last night.

A home crowd of 400 saw the Knights win their seventh straight league game. Rick Sabosky made 10 field goals to balloon a 23-point effort.

Coach Dave Benedard's varsity catches St. Bernard's at home Friday night in Game No. 8.

Along with the accuracy with which the Knights scored their 34 goals from the floor against Crespi, they also had 16-for-20 at the free throw line.

West Bees, Cees Roll

Lightweight basketball in the first round of the season, the Pioneer League is currently dominated by West High. The school's Class B team came away with a 56-53 win and C teams went undefeated over Aviation in the battle for first place last Friday.

Tom Sandowich scored 24 points in the victory. An otherwise easy win was complicated by a fourth quarter burst by the Falcons who outscored West, 19-8.

The Cees' 54-28 win over Aviation resulted for a 10-man scoring effort. The Warriors took a 36-9 halftime lead, but scored only 1 point in the final heat.

Coach Dale Dabbs' West Cees enjoy a 5-0 league record, two games ahead of Aviation, Palos Verdes and Lawndale.

League standings in the Bees are West (5-0); Aviation (4-1); Palos Verdes (3-2); Lawndale (2-3); Lennox (1-4); and El Segundo (0-5). The Cees are West (5-0); Aviation (3-2); Palos Verdes (3-2); Lawndale (3-2); El Segundo (1-4); and Lennox (0-5).

El Camino Mixes With Long Beach

Looking for their 23rd straight home court victory, the Vikings of Long Beach City College play hosts to El Camino Friday evening.

Long Beach went into yesterday's game at Rio Hondo with an 8-0 Metro mark while El Camino hoped to improve its 3-5 record against visiting Bakersfield.

The Warriors led for only moments in the teams' first meeting — a 106-96 win for the visiting Vikings. LBCC put seven men in double figures, ranging from 10 to 17 points, and outrebounded the Torrance outfit by a resounding 78-48 count. El Camino received a 22-point effort from Bruce Troglin.

Hale was held to six points by Harry Williams and Carey Bailey and Brennan to 12 by Steve Wright, the 6-1 jumping-jack rebounder and sharp-shooter, who used up his fourth semester of eligibility.

Wright's absence was a prime reason for the Warrior's 104-86 loss to Santa Monica as the Metro opened second-round play last Friday. His replacement, Karl Honigman scored only two points. However, forward Walt Hale and guard Bob Brennan pumped in 16 and 20 markers apiece.

Hale was held to six points by Harry Williams and Carey Bailey and Brennan to 12 by Steve Wright, the 6-1 jumping-jack rebounder and sharp-shooter, who used up his fourth semester of eligibility.

Overtime Tilts Raise Objection

Next time the Blades are asked to play overtime, they're apt to reply, "Some other time."

Everytime the Blades go into sudden death, their fans not only die a slow death, but such has been their luck in playing out ties in the Western Hockey League this season that the Blades floundered each time in overtime. Four of the deadlocks were turned into defeat.

Ferny Flaman, coach and general manager minces no words on his feelings about playing up to 10 extra minutes to settle a tie.

"I don't like it, not at all," Flaman says, "and I've always felt that way—not just this year. I think when two teams tie they've both played a hard game and each deserves a point. "If they play overtime one club can get lucky and win it and the other team doesn't have a chance to come back. It changes the whole game," he said.

Flaman has allies in the National Hockey League who do not play overtimes except when it's necessary to decide a playoff game.

Frank Udvari, NHL supervisor of officials, watched one night as the Blades lost a 2-1 overtime game to Vancouver when the winning goal took a freak bounce off a Blade defender's stick into the net.

"There's no sentiment at all for overtime in the National League," Udvari said. "They realize if the teams played sudden death both would play it so close to the vest it wouldn't be a game anymore."

There's also the point of undue wear and tear on the players. Last week the Blades played three games in three nights, a tough assignment when asked to go overtime in the first two.

Had those four points they lost in defeats have been ties, they could eventually make the difference between being in or out of the playoffs.

El Segundo Five Claims, 'We're One'

El Segundo, seeking to become the CIF's first team in 15 years to complete a basketball season undefeated, scored its 26th straight yesterday and became the unanimous No. 1 team in the CIF Southern Section.

The latest victim of El Segundo was Aviation which went down 63-53 in a game played at Aviation.

Last Friday the Eagles bounced Lennox, 79-30, with forward Ed Hora scoring 20 and guard Dana Pagett, All-CIF candidate, on the bench nursing a hand and foot injury. Hora hit on 9-of-9 shots from the floor and ran his 3-game streak to 19 for 20. "He's the best shooter for a big man I've ever seen on the high school level," Coach Cliff Warren said of Hora.

Only Compton (32-0) in 1952 and Ventura (30-0) in 1949 survived the regular season and rugged CIF playoff undefeated since World War II days.

While El Segundo continued its superb play, Ramona of Riverside (20-2) suffered its second setback of the season, 55-47, at the hands of Pacific (8-14).

Compton, Covina, Millikan, Morningside, North Torrance, Burbank, Ventura and Crescenta Valley also won to round out the top teams in the CIF last week.

Burbank (16-2) made more noise than the others with a 112-37 win over Glendale Hoover. It was the fourth time over the 100-point for the Bulldogs and third time over 110.

"I feel we can run with any one in the CIF," said Burbank Coach Jack Loutensock today. "We like to fast break and do it whenever we can. We also use a zone press (ala UCLA) and drop back into a man-to-man. Our center Bob Saia (6-3) is another Keith Erickson as the deep man on the press," he added.

Burbank faces Crescenta (16-3) in the CIF's featured attraction of the week, Friday, at Glendale College.
