READY FOR COMPETITION... The Jazz Lancers, a group of Redondo and Manhattan Beach teenagers, have been selected as semifinalists in the 1968 Battle of the Bands, sponsored by the Los Angeles County Department of Parks and Recreation. The young musicians are (from left) Chris Grossman, Douglas Schneider, Richard Morgan, Milton Alberts, and Larry Jones. They'll compete this afternoon, with other area bands for the opportunity to perform as finalists at the Hollywood Bowl June 21. Semifinals also include vocal soloists Joel Schneider and Sherrie Schneider of Torrance and the Minor Triad, a musical group which includes South High student John Ely on bass.

By TERRENCE O'FLAHERTY

I have been excessively prudent in the presence of foreign royalty ever since I bowed gracefully to Their Serene Highnesses the Prince and Princess of Monaco and impaled myself on one of the palace greaser-pulls.

The disturbance created by a recent meeting with Miss Teen Japan and Miss Teen Philippines registered considerably lower on my Richter scale, but a crown's a crown whether it comes from Cartier or Clairol. They were on their way to Hollywood where they competed in Poise, Beauty, Personal Achievement and Ability to Communicate with contestants from 11 countries in the "Miss Teen International," a contest which is about as commercial as you can get without losing your amateur standing entirely.

The chaperone for the visiting royalty was the outgoing Miss Teen U.S.A. who is from Anaheim, Calif. I found the three of them sitting on a sofa in San Francisco's Plaza Hotel—and as I approached them the generation gap widened alarmingly.

THEY WERE not in native costume, thank god, but they WERE in the clothes native to teenagers all over the world—miniskirts. Not one of the three could be called beautiful, but they were cute and young and excited and seemed reasonably intelligent. But there the similarity stopped. While they weren't wearing native costumes, they did wear their national characteristics. Miss Philippines was shy, Miss Japan was quiet and respectful, and Miss U.S.A. was lively, open, just a bit cynical, and a summer blonde.

The foreign royalty, not yet brainwashed by the sponsor, had black hair that glistened every time they turned their heads.

Liquor Suspect Arrested

Torrance police investigators have taken into custody a man believed to be connected with the Dec. 23 armed robbery of a local liquor store.

Kenneth A. Williams, 20, of Compton, was arrested Tuesday night, four months after Corner Liquor, 18915 Crenshaw Blvd., was held up. Store owner Nick J. Gees told police that two suspects forced him at gunpoint to lie on the floor while they cleaned out the cash register.
