

ANN LANDERS

This Is Different

Dear Ann Landers: Girls often have asked you this question, but I can't recall that a fellow has ever written about it. Please help me.

When I was a senior in high school the girl I was going steady with became pregnant. I was in no position to get married, and even if I had been I would not have picked that girl. She knew it and did not try to force the issue.

The girl had her baby and put it up for adoption. Two years later she married a nice young fellow and they are getting along fine so far as I know.

I am a senior in college now and have been going with a wonderful girl. We plan to marry after graduation in June. I have never asked questions about her love life and I am hoping she will not ask questions about mine.

You have always counseled girls to keep their mouths shut about their past indiscretions. Does this go for fellows as well?

—NEBRASKA QUESTIONER

Dear Neb: There is an important distinction between "indiscretions" and live babies. I have said a girl does not owe her fiancé a score card listing the names and numbers of the previous players. The same holds true for the fellow. An out-of-wedlock child, however, is something else and should not be kept a secret.

Dear Ann Landers: This may sound like a dumb question but I need an answer.

When a person is served stewed prunes what is he supposed to do with the pits?

I always thought it was proper to spit the pits into the spoon and leave them on the plate. I did this recently at a breakfast and got some very dirty looks. What's the word, Ann?

—BAFFLED

Dear Baffled: I can't imagine what else you'd do with prune pits but put them on the plate. This should be done as quietly as possible. When a pit hits fine china or thin crystal it makes a pinging sound which creates attention. Maybe that's your problem.

Dear Ann Landers: I'd like to comment on the letter signed "I'll Be Dog-goned." I hope the man doesn't listen to you because if he sacrifices his dog for a crazy girl he will live to regret it. You said, "It shouldn't happen to a dog." I say it shouldn't happen to man.

So what if the dog eats off the same dishes? Anyone who knows anything will tell you that a dog's mouth is more sanitary than a human's. You remember that phrase "cleaner than a hound's tooth"?

I have had many dogs in my life and many women. Put them side by side and the dog wins every time. He is more honest, more faithful, more loving and less trouble.

—CLYDE

Dear Clyde: So why don't you move into the kennel and call it a day? Your paw-print signature was my laugh for the day. Thanks for writing.

How far should a teen-age couple go? Can necking be safe? When does it become too hot to handle? Send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Necking and Petting—What Are The Limits?" Mail your request to Ann Landers in care of your newspaper enclosing 50 cents in coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope. Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of the Press-Herald, enclosing a stamped self-addressed envelope. (C) 1966, Publishers Newspaper Syndicate

Use of Drugs, Narcotics Among Students on Rise

What brings young teenagers to experiment and become "hung up" on drugs?

That was the question posed by Sgt. Rick Berman, Division of Narcotics, Los Angeles Sheriff's Department, in a talk delivered before the 40 principals of the Torrance Unified School District at an administrators' meeting conducted by Supt. J. H. Hull.

A veteran of ten years experience in the narcotic investigative field, Sergeant Berman has spent the last 18 months in the Sunset-Malibu area talking to thousands of drug users ranging from 9 to 60 years of age.

RECOMMENDING that schools institute small discussion groups led by teachers trained in the factual background of narcotics and drug abuse, the sergeant stated that in Los Angeles County 50 per cent of high school students "will experiment with narcotics during their high school careers." Of those, he predicted that an average of 10 per cent will continue to use drugs and narcotics.

He described the typical narcotics user in the Southern California "melting pot" as coming from middle and upper class Caucasian homes.

"The largest percentage are from homes which are intact," he said, "with a mother and father, but with no communication."

Not only do youngsters who turn to drugs fail to communicate with their parents, according to Sergeant Berman, but they are unable to communicate with their teachers as well.

"THEY ARE looking for something to belong to," he stated. "They are anti-establishment—and the school, police, and political system are the 'establishment.'"

"They cannot relate to any one," he added. "They have double standards—in that they want material things, but do not want to work for them."

In the South Bay-Centennial Valley area, according to Sergeant Berman, student attitudes are the same as in other areas.

"They say education is a 'bunko,'" he reported. "And a lot of them think they are just putting in their time, being 'baby-sat.' Many schools are so large students feel they have become numbers; they are not individuals; nobody relates to them. Many are trying to get attention on the campus by laughing at administration."

ON THE Sunset Strip, the sergeant stated, about 300 persons a month are arrested for narcotics violations. One out of every four picked up on this charge is either pregnant, has a venereal disease, is running away from home, or has hepatitis or tuberculosis. "And these are mostly kids under 18," he commented.

Most commonly used drugs on campus are barbiturates, or sleeping pills, according to Sergeant Berman. Amphetamines and marijuana are also in common usage. Use of LSD, psychedelic drugs, mescaline, and heroin is on the increase, he said.

Sleeping pills are second only to guns in suicides, Berman pointed out.

HOW CAN parents and teachers tell whether or not their child is using drugs?

According to Sergeant Berman, the youngster taking barbiturates looks intoxicated, is inattentive, argumentative, and falls asleep easily. With marijuana, the youngster is unable to relate and extreme dilation of pupils is apparent. The amphetamines causes rapid movement, fast talking, and excitability.

How does the sergeant feel the drug problem can be controlled?

"We need strong internal controls," he stated, "objective, factual education at the earliest educational level."

Centurions Seek New Members

One hundred new Centurions is the goal of a membership drive announced today by Joseph Drnovich, Centurion Club president.

The club, whose membership includes many business and professional leaders in the area, was organized in 1959 to support and financially aid Little Company of Mary Hospital.

Since the opening of the hospital, the club has contributed generously toward building, equipping, and expanding the 179-bed facility.

The yearly membership fee of $100, Drnovich said, will go into the Little Company of Mary Hospital Foundation Fund, to be used for planned remodeling and expansion of outpatient facilities. Included will be enlarging and equipping the radiology department and emergency room, as well as other outpatient and administrative departments.

Helping the club reach its 100 new member goal are membership committee members Elaine Shull, Bert Lynn, and James Visceglia.

COUNT MARCO

Mass Marriage Saves Pop Money

It's only a season away before the rush to the altar of love begins for thousands of brides.

As a show for friends and relatives, the wedding may be a stupendous production, but as a cementer of marital relations and longevity it will be entirely ineffective.

Statistics indicate that no matter how lavish the wedding, the odds are 2 to 1 the star cast will split about the time they cash their last honeymoon check. So, I ask, why spend so much money on a poor performance?

When a Broadway production folds the backers can write off their losses. But the poor father of the bride not only suffers a complete financial loss but has the bad actress back on his hands to recast, if he's lucky.

A sect in India has come up with a solution that American parents could well emulate. For harassed fathers who are struggling with the expenses of their daughters' weddings, there are now mass-marriage ceremonies at 15 cents a couple. For this sum a bridegroom weds his bride at a ceremony with as many as 50 other couples.

This procedure may seem a bit cruel and crude, perhaps, but personally, I can't see why. After all, we have the very social mass debuts where hoards of girls are introduced to prospective husbands.

Then, if the marriage lasts two years, the "big" celebration may be held with all the rites, gifts, costumes and pomp and circumstance every girl loves.

And if the bride is a drop-out, father can use the wedding money he saved for getting daughter a job and he and Mother can take a peaceful trip around the world on the savings.
