

$1.2 Million in Taxes Paid for Schools, City

Communities in the South-west Division of Southern California Gas Co. received tax benefits from the investor-owned utility amounting to $1,292,000 for 1987, according to division manager S. W. Lynch.

Among those benefiting are the cities of El Segundo, Gardena, Hawthorne, Inglewood, Manhattan Beach, Redondo Beach, and Torrance.

The taxes are used for school, city, county, and special tax district purposes. Also included are the revenues which the cities received from franchise fees and business licenses paid by the gas company.

Special tax district benefits include allocations for lighting, sewers, roads, water, garbage disposal, fire protection and other services for the area.

Taxes paid by the gas company to Los Angeles County payment of $19,430,000 in taxes throughout its system which was part of the utility's in Southern California.

Assembly Bill Prohibits City Income Tax Proposal

SACRAMENTO—The state assembly, after a lengthy debate, has passed a bill which would prohibit a city from levying an income tax on non-residents who work in the city.

There was a good deal of confusing debate on exactly what the circumstances were concerning AB1239 by Assemblyman Don Mulford (R-Piedmont), but most members seemed to be voting on the principle of the thing.

Mulford charged that Mayor Joseph Alioto of San Francisco has proposed levying such an income tax on non-residents who are employed in San Francisco.

"This is one of the most discriminatory efforts I've ever seen by a municipality — to attack the income of non-residents," Mulford said.

HOWEVER, San Francisco assemblymen said no such plan was being considered and Mulford's bill merely would serve to remind all cities and counties they have the right to impose income taxes if they wish.

Assemblyman John F. Foran (D-San Francisco) said "this happens to be a bill that violates home rule as no bill ever has violated it before."

He said it would handcuff local government in dealing with its problems.

Assemblyman John T. Knox (D-Richmond), from the East Bay Area, said people who worked in San Francisco and lived in the East Bay paid all taxes but property taxes, including sales tax.

Assemblyman Leo J. Ryan (D-Burlingame) said about 40 per cent of the San Francisco residents actually worked in San Mateo County. He predicted that if San Francisco attempted to tax the income of non-resident workers, San Mateo would follow with a similar move within a year.

ASSEMBLY Speaker Jesse M. Unruh (D-Inglewood) said suburban areas were being subsidized and core areas cities such as San Francisco needed help but the proposed San Francisco tax was not the answer.

Although supporting Mulford's bill, Unruh admitted "we are subsidizing the suburbs by building roads and schools for them and making it easier for people to desert the cities and move to the Anglo-Saxon enclaves in the suburbs."
