WARRIOR TRAILS

By Robin Newcomer

Four years have flown swiftly by for almost four hundred graduating Warriors. With various emotions, the Class of '68 looks forward to its fast approaching commencement, but yet one cannot help but look back on the past years of high school without a tiny lump in his throat. (Even if it is just for the test that was flunked.)

For the seniors who have attended West since their freshman year there is the vague memory of our orientation to West which included the frustrating attempts to open lockers and going crazy trying to distinguish between buildings 4 and 5.

AS THE "wise fools" in our second year our confidence was built up to the point that we frequently found it amusing to kid the incoming freshman class. ("They're so young and funny looking!"). Before long we "upper-classmen" sponsored one of the most important activities of all—the junior-senior prom, "Dream of Days Gone By."

When senior rings became ours to wear in our junior year we proudly strutted around campus, keeping our ring finger conspicuous, just in case someone would like to see it." For some, our last year has been slow-moving, but for the majority of seniors the days have flown by quickly. This year was not without its disappointments (anyone for a senior ditch-day?), but perhaps these have helped us become better young adults.

THE NEXT days are filled with the special activities that the "mighty class of '68" has waited for. Today, after Baccalaureate, a special non-denominational religious service, many seniors will finally realize that they are indeed graduating. Others may not really grasp the idea until they step up to get their diploma on Wednesday night. I, for one, am just realizing it.

"Warrior Trails" has been my column for two short years. A few months ago I wished that I could use it for critical editorials concerning our schools. Many times it has been mildly used to this effect.

THIS DESIRE has now vanished, maybe because it has now become easier to see the reasons behind seemingly unreasonable actions or rules of previous months. Maybe, it is only because graduation is only three days away. But I doubt this.

Dr. Robert Ford said at a recent senior assembly that West will always be our high school. To some this means more than to others, but it is true.

I have put off finishing this column for this year as much as possible. Jan Bramhall, a junior will be taking up "Warrior Trails" where I left off next September so watch for her! Until then...

Trails End!

was with Capitol News Service for 11 years, and during that time, established a reputation throughout the state as an authority on fish, game and conservation matters. He was author of the column "The Fish'n Gamer," published frequently in the sports section of the Press-Herald.

IN ADDITION, he was one of the state's leading political writers. Governor Ronald Reagan, on hearing of Capps' death, said:

"I knew him always as a gentleman and as one of the ablest and most highly respected members of his craft."

"His work, as both a political writer and outdoor sports writer, has long been a credit to the field of journalism, and I know that I share the feelings of his many colleagues and friends that his presence will be sorely missed."

CAPPS WAS BORN in LaCota, Mich., Sept. 13, 1924. His parents still reside in that state.

He was in the army during World War II, and saw duty overseas, in North Africa. On his return from the service, he attended the University of Missouri, and was graduated from the school of journalism.

Moving west after graduation, he worked for newspapers in Nevada, and was publisher of the Lake Tahoe News, at South Lake Tahoe.

HE JOINED the staff of the United Press in Sacramento as a Capitol reporter, and in 1957, joined the CNA partnership.

Last Tuesday, Capps was in a San Francisco hospital for a check-up. He returned Wednesday afternoon to attend the graduation ceremonies of his son, Kenneth, from high school. Before the event, however, he was rushed to a hospital where he lived until Thursday morning.

Aside from his son Kenneth, Capps is survived by his wife, Betty, and two other children, Steven and Katherine.

IN CONCERT... Al Bollington, an English organist, will appear in concert at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday at the Alondra Club, 16411 Prairie Ave., Lawndale. Bollington began his study of music at the age of 7. He was a church organist when he was 9, and at 14 he was awarded an associate degree from London College of Music. The concert, featuring popular melodies and show tunes, will be sponsored by Wallis Music City.

ELEVATED... Gordon V. Comer has been elected president of the First Church of Christ, Scientist, during the annual meeting of the church in Boston. "Whatever the turmoil of the present times, spiritual values and all the blessings they bring to humanity will survive," he told his fellow churchmen at the meeting.
