The Mail Ego

By Terrence O'Flaherty

"Who are the most influential people in the making of Hollywood movies?"

Beverly Hills psychiatrists. They influence the writers who provide the scripts the director uses to tell the actors how to act.

"My family and I have just completed a month's tour of our National Parks. They are so beautiful. We wonder why there hasn't been a TV series based on them?"

The will be the subject of the premiere program on the National Geographic series when it returns to CBS October 23 titled "America's Wonderlands."

"Which was the original Charlie Chan—Warner Oland or Sidney Toler?"

Neither. George Kuwa played him first in a 1926 Hollywood serial. Two years later he was portrayed by Kamiyama Sojin and, in 1929, by E. L. Park. Warner Oland was the fourth Charlie and in 1931 until his death in 1938 he was replaced by Sidney Toler in 22 movies. After Toler's death in 1947 Roland Winters took over the role for four years. The actor who played him most often was J. Carroll Naish in 39 TV shows.

"My children—all eleven of them—want to be child stars on television series but I keep discouraging them. Don't most child actors lead a terrible life and end up unhappy?"

They work harder and play less than the average suburban youngster their age. They are pampered only by their fans. A state law requires that they study with a teacher four hours a day in addition to acting. Some of them end up in jail and others end up as Mrs. Richard Burton or Mrs. Shirley Temple Black. They make good money and with eleven kids you'll need it.

"Is Lon Chaney of the old 'Phantom of the Opera' days still alive?"

No. He died in 1930 at the age of 47. His son, Lon Chaney Jr., has continued his father's type of roles but with less success.

"Is Clint Howard on 'Gentle Ben' related to Ronny Howard on 'The Andy Griffith Show'?"

Yes. Clint is Ronny's younger brother.

"Why doesn't television make two series dealing with practical problems faced by normal citizens? Instead of showing us how to make out with the girl next door or shoot down an escaped convict why not tell us which gasoline is really best or how to borrow money without paying through the nose?"

Such a series was produced last year by the National Educational TV Network titled "Your Dollars Worth" which dealt specifically with both these subjects and many others. Contact the educational channel in your area for time and date.

"What has happened to the actor who played the judge in the old TV courtroom show 'Day In Court' and 'Traffic Court'?" He was the only convincing performer on daytime television.

His name is Edgar Allan Jones. He was a law professor (UCLA) turned actor and is still active in TV. He quit "Day In Court" in 1964 when ABC-TV turned it into a soap opera. Since that time he has been trying to interest the nets in doing a TV series that is law-oriented. I'd say it's about time they did. Next year it may be too late.

"How is Barbra Streisand making out in Hollywood?"

She's into everything. Some say she's a temperamental monster, others claim she's merely a perfectionist. "They shouldn't be so hard on her," said one wag. "After all, 'Funny Girl' is the first movie she ever directed!" When the film was finished, veteran director William Wyler gave her a silver megaphone engraved with the initials of the Director's Guild of America. Her next movie is "Hello Dolly" but gossips say it won't start as scheduled because Streisand won't get through editing "Funny Girl" in time! If she's a monster now, just wait until she has her first hit movie.

"What oh what is happening to 'Peyton Place'? New people keep coming to town—like that divorcee with the sour teenage daughter—while all the nice old timers like Dorothy Malone and Tim O'Connor are packing to leave. Even Dr. Rossi looks as if he's had it."

After all they've been through including murder, blackmail, rape, cancer and a runaway daughter who married Frank Sinatra, it's a wonder they didn't leave town three years ago. I have a hunch they'll be happy to be written out for a while. One thing is certain: "Peyton Place" is the only regular show on television where the domestic troubles don't go into reruns during the summer.

County Funds Voted for Area Water Conservation

The County Flood Control District has been authorized to replenish the water tables in the agency's Zone I, roughly bounded by the Orange County line, the Los Angeles River, Whittier Narrows Dam and the ocean.

Chace said $772,000 in Zone II funds will be allocated to the West Basin Municipal Water District for water to be used in the West Coast Basin anti-brine project.

The funds are collected in special zones established in the southeast and southwest portions of the county.

A total of $1,475,117 will be delivered by Metropolitan to the Central Basin Water District. CFCD has to Municipal Water District for buy it through the two municipal water to be percolated into local water districts since natural underground reservoir MWD can sell only to its vours at CFCD's spreading member agencies. Supervisor grounds These waters help Chace added.
