Around the World

with Stan Delaplane

PARIS—The Folies Bergere is celebrating its hundred years of nudes, leg-kicking and comedy. The Folies is really high class burlesque. But since this is Paris—(how you gonna keep 'em down on the farm?)—it has been very popular with tourists.

American tourists to Paris have been fed on legends of two expeditionary armies, and they expect something wicked. Hence the Folies play to an audience of 40 per cent American. And have put 40 per cent of the jokes into English you can understand.

The staging is spectacular. The girls are pretty. (Though what's in a semi-nude in these days of topless girl bands and miniskirts?) Skits are funny.

The wicked Place Pigalle is still going. But not with the number of customers it once had. This is where the bare show is right in your lap. The waiter pops a $15 bottle of champagne before you can get the chair under you.

If you are alone, you find them putting a girl at your table. (With a hollow leg, Man, can SHE drink champagne! Pop! The waiter opens another.)

The hat check girl brings the girl at the table a faded corsage—from you, sport, $5. And if you long to be The Last of the Big-Time Spenders in Paris, you can get all the help in the world.

Tip: For ladies and gentlemen who want to see the night life, well done to rare, the travel agencies run a medium-price nightclub tour. All inclusive for $10 up.

"I would like to send my mother who is 70 to Hawaii and I must watch the costs..."

I'd do this by one of the tours. There are some very good tours by big companies that I checked out. Best hotels. All the islands. And a choice of several restaurants to go to and pay with vouchers included in the price. Two to three weeks running about $350 to $400 plus.

Now if you send her solo, she can fly inter-island for half price. (Anybody over 65 gets this, taking planes on a standby basis. Both Aloha and Hawaiian Air.)

"We are both surfers. So if we can get to the South Pacific, where should we go?"

Best surf I saw was in Australia, Right at Sydney. Four or five big beaches with waves running five to ten feet high. I never saw surf in the South Pacific islands. The islands are enclosed in reefs, and the reefs break the waves. (Quantas, the Australian round-the-world airline, can give you a lot on surfing.)

"What do you think of the book 'Europe on $5 a Day'?"

I think it's a great title. But I doubt if you can do Europe on $5 a day unless you are hitchhiking and living in youth hostels. I have read the series—it's been expanded to various countries like "England on $5 and $10 a Day." I think you find some good tips. "Ireland on $5 and $10 a Day" is particularly good.

NOTICE OF TRUSTEE'S SALE
On April 17, 1968, at 10:00 A.M. WESTERN ESCROW COMPANY as duly appointed Trustee under and pursuant to Deed of Trust dated December 15, 1967, executed by EDWARD G. WILLIAMS and VICKIE G. Another for you is by Fielding whose "Travel Guide to Europe" in my opinion is the best for all travelers. For the economy people, he has a new one—"Fielding's Super Economy Guide to Europe." (I may not have that title exactly right. But it is close enough for you to look for it.)

And for the young and rugged, you can have my "Europe on $2 and $3 a Day." (This is from youngsters who hitchhike and carry their own sandwiches. I wouldn't do it myself, but my daughter did. You need plenty of stamina and keep your eye on the bluebird.) It's free.

A Thousand and One Travelers' Tales: Two readers complain about Eurailpass—the fixed prices, almost unlimited mileage on European trains. One says the trains were too crowded. Another that he was pushed into third class. The pass is for first class travel.

But I think these are unusual cases. Everything else I've heard about Eurailpass has been good.

"For two girls from college, what are the 'in' places in Honolulu?"

The beach in the daytime. Whenever Don Ho is playing in the nighttime The Swinging hotel used to be the Moana (known then as Hysteria House). But now it's the Hawaiian Village.

COUNCILMAN REPORTS

Improvement of City Streets Progressing

Torrance streets are being built and improved with unprecedented speed and efficiency under a vital new program conceived by the City Council's public works committee.

Details of the program were reported in a press release circulated by David K. Lyman, chairman of the committee for the past four years and a candidate for reelection in April.

Under current policy of obtaining street right-of-way through condemnation proceedings rather than long-term dedication of the needed land, construction may begin when it is necessary rather than after the need has become critical.

The policy applies to major thoroughfares where motorizing needs have created serious bottlenecks in recent years, while the old policy of negotiating for dedication of land on residential streets remains in effect.

In that manner, Lyman noted, the taxpayers are saved the cost of condemnation proceedings where the immediate safety of the driving public is not endangered.

"To supplement the program," Lyman said, "the Department of Public Works has been instructed to undertake as many road projects as efficiency dictates."
