It rather resembles an over-ripe banana, being yellow in color, and semi-oval in shape. It carries its own air supply, and with the special equipment that re-uses oxygen to allow re-breathing, it can stay underwater 18 hours, or possibly longer in the case of an emergency.

"We never find it necessary to stay under much longer than an hour or so," Privett said. "The vehicle is so mobile that we can cover a lot of floor in a short period of time."

mode of travel in his work is not a whole lot more dangerous than airline or automobile travel, but it's a lot more exciting. It's educational, too; less is known about life underwater at great depths and conditions on the ocean floor than about the outer regions of the solar system.

Nekton, Inc., has another vehicle on the drawing board that will incorporate the knowledge they've gained from the Nekton with some new ideas for improved efficiency.

Where will it end for Doug Privett. He says he'll just have to wait and see...

Man rents Plane; Fails To Return It

THE NEKTON has gone a maximum depth of 715 feet, but has been tested to 1,500 without a leak. Privett reported some early problems with leakage from the propeller shaft, but experimentation and testing provided a new, tight one. Small scratches and leaks are not as dangerous as they sound, because they usually seal up water-tight under the tremendous pressure of the water.

Although inexpensive to operate as far as materials go—a battery charge and a bottle of air—the Nekton hires out for about $1,000 per day. The reason for this is the expense involved in launching a boat and crew to tow the sub to its dive site.

But even though money is the prime goal of the Nekton's existence, Privett admits that he "has a ball" down under. "I am fascinated by all the old anchors, wrecks, fish and — well, everything I find on the bottom," he said.

A 1968 Cherokee Piper airplane, worth $14,000 was apparently stolen from Torrance Airport Monday when the plane's owner rented the craft to a man who failed to return it at the appointed hour.

Benedict Favrholt, 23930 Ocean Ave., told police he rented his plane to a man who said he was going to fly to Palm Springs and return at 2:20 p.m.

Police said the suspect might have flown the craft to Mexico since it had not landed at any airport in Southern California.

Warning Test

Civil defense warning sirens throughout Los Angeles County will be sounded in the customary month-end test of the systems at 10 a.m. Friday, July 26, Sheriff Peter J. Pitchess announced.

This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the local office of the U.S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

I notified the post office when I moved but my refund still hasn't come. What should I do now?

Write the IRS service center where you filed your return giving your present and former address, social security number, and date of filing.

I need someone to represent me on my tax case. Where can I find someone?

Contact your local accounting, bar or tax practitioner association. They can give you names of persons qualified to represent you.

Is the room and board you receive as a camp counselor considered taxable income?

No, it is not as long as the room and board are furnished on your employer's premises and for his convenience. Acceptance of the lodging must be a condition of your employment.

I just opened a savings account for my daughter. Should I use my social security number to identify the account or do I have to use her number?

Use her number.

I just discovered I made a mistake in figuring my sick pay exclusion when I filed my 1967 return. Can I use the Form 1040-X to correct this?

Yes, you can. You should also complete and attach a copy of Form 2440, Statement to Support Exclusion of Sick Pay, showing how you compute your corrected sick pay exclusion.

Copies of these forms and necessary instructions for filling them out can be obtained at local IRS offices.

I run a dry cleaning store. How often do I have to deposit the taxes I withhold from my employees' wages?

Deposits of income tax withheld and employee and employer social security taxes must be made semi-monthly when they amount to $2,500 or more for any month in the preceding calendar quarter. Employers with liabilities over $100, but less than $2,500 in a month are required to make monthly deposits.

Employers whose monthly total of these taxes is $100 or less are not required to make monthly deposits.

However, if the total taxes for a quarter (reduced on any deposits) are more than $100, the unpaid balance of these taxes must be deposited by the last day of the month following the close of the quarter.

WHAT'S DOING?

Going out for the evening? One of the first things to leave with the babysitter is the telephone number where you can be reached. And don't forget a list of emergency numbers; like Fire, Police, and Doctor. There's a special place on the inside cover of your directory for these numbers. Have you written them down?

Now, here's a real shaggy customer story for you. It seems there's a German shepherd dog in Los Angeles who answers phone calls and holds the receiver in his mouth until his master comes. What's more, every month he pays the phone bill! He carries the payment in his teeth and drops it right on the counter of our public office.
