'Gross Margins' Tax Bill Stirs Up Legislators

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR SACRAMENTO - (CNS) -The proposal of Senator William E. Coombs, R-Rialto, for a com plete and radical over-haul of the tax system in California, engendering new and untried concepts of providing revenues for state and local government alike, presumably will go noplace this year, but at least, it provides some food for thought. In effect, the senator proposes to substitute a "gross margins" tax for the present hodge-podge of ievies on all available sources of revenue the legislature has dreamed up to compound and confuse the people of the state, as well as to present the taxpayer with constantly increasing burdens to finance state, county, city and district government.

The "gross margins" tax is different than a gross profits tax, in that it would hit everything, including all types of ser-vice. Senator Coombs antici-pates that should such a tax eventually be approved, there would be a mad scramble for voters voted for Proposition 9 last fall, the Watson amend-exemptions, particularly from the tax on services However, he points out that to the extent any industry or service is exempted, it will lessen the ability of the tax to respond fully to changes in the population and price level. Coombs also says what everyone else, particularly the taxpayers, that there is a desperate need for tax reform. He cites the fact that over two million

JUST WHAT

D'YOU EXPECT

YOU GROW UP?

TO BE WHEN

ment, which he said was ill-conceived

So far, all efforts in the tax reform field have succeeded in feeding the people nothing but pap, rather than reform, which seems to be no closer today than it was when propaganda for the defeated Watson amendment started last yer.

Some of the features of Coombs' proposal include repeal of all personal property tax, in-cluding inventory, and limiting the tax of real property to 1½ per cent of the fair market val-

DOWN

WITH THE

DEAN

Question for College Demonstrators

PROTEST

ue: reducing sales taxes to one per cent for use in retiring coun ty bonds; restoring personal income tax and bank and corporation franchise taxes to 1967 levels; imposing an oil sev-erance tax and repealing taxes on transportation tax on persons and property.

His estimates indicate revenue losses through the reduc-tions would be made up by the gross margins tax, which would be about four or particular be about four, or perhaps slightly more, per cent.

Schools would be financed

HERB CAEN SAYS:

through allocation of a percentage of the gross margins tax, with appropriate allocations to local government.

Among the advantages, he says, the tax is neutral with resolve, the tax is heattal with the spect to forms of business, ad-ding equally and proportionately to the costs of using labors, cap-ital and entreprenurial skills and talents, and consequently, should not distort the propor-tions in which these modulations tions in which these productive resources are employed.

Thus, it is the only tax which reaches all incomes arising within the taxing jurisdiction, or the value of goods and services there produced, the senator states.

Apprarently, what the proposal would do would be to switch the tax base from property in the main, to goods and services and the production thereoff. And in the ultimate, taxes would be paid by the people as usual, but on the basis of the use of these goods and services, rather than on the basis of possessions the people have acquired or are acquiring.

now filling rapidly with all those cars we have too many of, over back roads cracking and pitting under the strain

Back home, I said to Christ-opher, "Now, you have to take a nap." "Why?" he wailed. "Because I'm tired," I said where" ... Bob Bundsen's short report after a visit to Disneyland: "Strictly Mickey

Your Right to Know Is the Key to All Your Liberties

Comment and Opinion

FRIDAY, MARCH 7, 1969

Taxpayers' Revolt

About the only place the average taxpayer can meaningfully express his displeasure at the rapidly accelerating cost of government is at the local level.

One of the results of the mounting citizens' revolt is the rejection of the bond issues proposed for public school construction.

Last year local taxpayers defeated more than one-third of the 1,625 school bond issues proposed across the nation — voting a resounding "no" to projects that would have cost a total of $945 million.

As school construction costs continue to rise, and with interest rates at a higher level, it will be even more difficult to obtain voter approval for bond issues.

All this doesn't mean that the public is turning against education; it just means overburdened taxpayers are protesting the never-ending upsurge in their taxes.

In areas where new construction is approved, community-minded citizens are looking into the new "systems approach" to school buildings, which involves the use of pre-built parts of a school, such as ventilating systems and other components.

Special school facilities ranging from gymnasiums to educational TV and language laboratories are being carefully examined. Frills are being eliminated.

This local rebellion against skyrocketing school costs, while hurting in areas which deserve better acceptance, should serve as a warning to all government units to cut spending generally. The taxpayer does not have a never-ending supply of finances for useless spending.

Class in Three-D

A "three D program"-Demonstration, Disruption and Destruction-is currently being offered at Southwest Los Angeles College.

In a period of four days last week, members of the Black Student Union took over the administration building for about 40 minutes after forcing the college president and dean to leave and then returned during another "peaceful demonstration" to break windows in the same building bringing sheriff's deputies on campus to restore order.

Also in the same period, "persons unknown" bombed a classroom building with all the cunning of a demolition expert causing some $1,000 damage. Yet, administrators have failed to take any disciplinary action against a single student. Sheriff's deputies made one arrest in connection with the window breaking.

Campus demonstrations, called "rallies" by the participants, have been held as regularly as classes in English 1 since mid-December when the BSU presented the usual list of demands to the adminis-tration for "more of this and less of that."

Administrators have been patient - maybe too patient. The college president even gave up his office to the students in order to avert a major incident.

The time for such patience ended, however, when destruction became the goal of the demonstrators.

Do you ever mutter under your breath when kids dash in front of your car? Or bike ri-ders may you jittery because you don't know where they're going next? If you are one of these individuals, this is for you dave you:

From the Mailbox

with you?

get a ride home?

ing traffic?

curb quicker?

• Ignored the "Don't Walk"

Airport Plan

a red light because no cars were coming and you were in a hurry, sometimes taking little To the Editor:

the Torrance Municipal Airport.

"Wait" signs thinking these en't for you? • Driven past a group of children going home from school, see yours and honk for him to dash into the traffic to get a ride home? • Or let him or her out of the car in the middle of the block to walk to school with a friend, again in front of oncom-• Stood in the street waiting for the light to change and when you're almost across the street take off at an angle out of the crosswalk in front of the oncoming traffic to get to the · Complained about the policeman (in front of your child) who gave your child a ticket for riding his bike on the left se to the right curb (with as close to the regardle. the traffic) as possible. If you think these don't apply following your child clo to you, try following your child to school, the store, or to Joe's to play and see. Help him to use common sense — don't cripple or per-haps even kill him. They are My Neighbors vou'll just have to child

"Guess

face it, dad-prodigy"

noise and traffic problem. Flight operations at the air-port could pay their own way better, in my opinion. As stated, one thought of that would be some small fee charged for those pilots not based here who practice land-ings. One, or two, landings could be free. But a large and brightly colored decal on the brightly colored decal on the proper place on the plane could serve to identify Torrance based aircraft. They would be exempt. Damage to runways and use of the facilities would be the reason for the charges. That plan does not appear to be too different from charges placed upon trucks and com placed upon trucks and com-mercial delivery by some cities; indeed even Torrance. As it would be for found use, it does not appear that the FAA would have pre-empted the JOHN W. JUDD

Torrance

8

"speculative." 1. International Leisure is a new company whose total reve-nues last year were about equal to what it raised in this utility of the specific sectors o ublic offering. mingo), four roulette tables 2. The bond sale brought the (two at the Flamingo) and sev-

13

Takes Chris for Outing The weatherman had prewere off to the strains of "La Ronde." Such sophisticat-ed new-Vienese music in this dicted gales but by 9 a.m., the clouds parted and the sun drafty temple of innocence. An came out followed by children, old man wearing a beret stood just outside the door, beaming at Christopher and dreaming dreams of sunnier days. At dogs and people on the way to church, their prayers already

Sun Comes Out, So Dad

Report from Our Man

went again.

We got in the car and rolled along the empty streets, every inch of curb space — legal or otherwise — crammed with a car for every two residents and only one garage for every two only one garage for every two cars. This is a real mink-lined poverty pocket, filled with two car families.

The merry-go-round was dark, cold and gloomy, haunted by the laughter of children grown old. I strapped Christo-pher onto a big rooster and climbed aboard a green frog that had seen better days. A bored young man reading a comic book punched a button without even looking up, and sternly, secretly pleased that I'd found an irrefutable anin San Francisco In one ear: Rudy Peterson, president of Bank of America, is off to Saigon to visit the sev-eral branches of the world's least I hoped that was what he was drean was dreaming. "Let's go again, Daddy," said Christopher at the end of the interminable ride. I was b i g g e s t bank in Vietnam. Peace may be closer than we know, although his long-range plans still don't include a tempted to ask "Why?" but we plans still don't include a branch in Hanoi ... Russ C l in e, the Dunhill's exec, jumped into a cab and said "Dunhill, please." Cabbie, af-ter some thought: "Uh – down any particular one?" ... Sticky sightem: Actress Ann Sothern dashing out of a "fam-ed" Fisherman Wharf restau-rant, proclaiming "The worst food I've ever eaten any-where" ... Bob Bundsen's We bought some peanuts and went over to the Arboretum, its majestic fountain splashing silvery in the thin sun, a giant Chinese magnolia supplying a d i st a n t early warning of Spring. Elderly ladies wearing Spring. Elderly ladies wearing coats down to their sensible shoes, and fedora hats redolent of Berlin in the 30s, strolled about, chatting in German. A group speaking French stood on the tiny wooden bridge, feeding the ducks. The squirrels, so aloof during the tourist season, came run-ning for peanuts. This is the Oh, bless our readers, I say. the tourist season, came run-ning for peanuts. This is the thin time of year for them. Christopher was enchanted. To one squirrel that grabbed his hand while reaching for a pea-nut, he said huskily, "I love you," the squirrel cocked his head at him uncertainly before scampering away. On, biess our readers, I say. Our item the other day about short poems ("Thurs.Hers," "Adam-Had 'em") has pro-duced a rash of nifty contribu-tions, among the best of which are Armint a Lambrecht's "God's Word: Leave, Eve" Omar Backers' Brief te. scampering away.

... Omar Barker's "Brief Es-say on Things That Turned Out Worse Than Expected: Few-We drove out of the Park, Do

On a Stroll With Alice In the Land of Leisure will then become the largest hotel in that gambling den. It's costing $52 million to build this pleasure dome, hence the need to raise money from a willing number willing public. Whereas the Flamingo has 767 rooms, the International will have 1,512. The Flamingo's

A Look at the World of Finance casino occupies 16,000 sq. ft. The new one will have double that space. The International will have 32 "21" tables (as against 14 at the Flamingo), 12 crease tables (six at the Fla craps tables (six at the Fla-

So everything you've heard is true: You can have a cheap vacation in Las Vegas if you stay out of the casino.

"Gross revenues are material-ly affected by the popularity of the entertainment featured at the hotel." In short, the smart money in Las Vegas bets after you have been entertained you will head for the casino.

our citizens of tomorrow and they will be good ones if we as parents teach them the right and term on the second term of way to do things by setting a good example for them to fol-A PARENT

you. Have you: • Ever crossed the street on

Thank you for the articles on

Comments from neighbors Comments from neighbors have been favorable. As we discussed, there is no intention to deny the private plane own-ers (on my part) from using the airport. Many pliots come to this airport for "touch-and-go" operations as it appears to be favorable for that. They have full rights to use it, but such use is at the expense of the pilot who pays a "tie-down" or hangar fee here. Those who come from other

HERE --- YOU

LL IT IN!

area of legislation

NOT VERY GOOD BUSINESS!

* * *

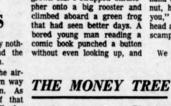

I leaned across the breakfast table and patted young Christ-opher on the top of his three-year - and - nine-months-old dome. "A beautiful morning, my boy," I said paternally. "Why?" he asked. "Because the sun came out for a the sun came out for a change." "Why the sun came out for a change?"

"Take me out to the music-go-round," commanded Christ-opher. "Why?" I said child-ishly. "And anyway, it's a merry-go-round." "Why?" he asked. Not a bad question, Mu-sic-go-round is quite descrip-tive, and don't ask me why.

having been answered.

During your stay you'll see top entertainers. The Flamingo top entertainers. The Flamingo last year spent $3.3 million on entertainment. That's close to $70,000 a week and represented 18 per cent of its total oper-ating costs. International Leis-ure noted that it makes very little on entertainment but — and here's the kicker —

l importance of vas spelled out in public offering, tional Leisure re-0,000 shares of its ambling business. A company a ptly named International Leisure Corporation proved that last month when it raised $26.5 million, easy as ple, through a combination stock-and-bond offering. Investors in New York, Chi-cago San Francisco Los An-snapped up the securities, which were expressly labeled "speculative."

There's no business like the cago, San Francisco, Los An-geles, Cleveland, Houston, New Oleanns, Minneapolis and 20 other cities across the land dozen stu dents-has now resulted in the closing of the college.

School officials should determine whether they want to maintain an "institution of higher education" or a training camp for a handful of commandos.

Other Opinions

Supposedly, taking the money out of our hands and putting it into the government's coffers will help halt inflation. The latest report from the Labor Department says the cost of living just went up another three-tenths of one per cent. And meanwhile, higher tax bills from the state, county, school district, and municipality continue to roll in .-- Flemington (N.J.) Democrat.

The automobile, while the family's great advantage in a fast-moving world, still is a powerful instrument of death and destruction, statistics tell us. Consideration for the other driver can help .-- Norwalk (Conn.) Hour. 1 mpany's debt to \$46.9 mil- m, and this represents 67 per nt of the total capitalization the company. 3. Net income last year was 9 million but the company ll have interest payments of ore than \$3 million to make 1969. $2 \div 2 \div$ Madness? No. This is Las sgas we're talking about – d who can put a rational ice on a company which is illecting the chips off those ulette and craps tables? International Leisure is the eation of Kirk Kerkorian, to made his money in the cline business (Trans Inter-	have 1,000 slot machines. the poor Flamingo has only 300. $\hat{x} + \hat{x} + \hat{x}$ As you can see, the Inter- much so may be gleaned from the operating figures revealed for the Flamingo. In 1968, the Flamingo took in \$11.6 million from the casino. But the hotel expenses ran to \$5.7 million while the casino expenses were \$5.5 million. International Leisure admits that the name of the game is to the yean play in the casino. It get 18 per cent of its business from all-expense group tours — and it offers these groups special rates. It "regularly in	The crucial importance of entertainers was spelled out in sat month's public offering, where International Leisure re- vealed that 50,000 shares of its 20,000 of these shares to be of- served for entertainers, with 20,000 of these shares to be of- fored immediately to two per- sons at \$5 a share. We don't show who these entertainers are but since International by some but since I tional). He follows another irline pioneer, Howard ughes, into the Nevada ca- no business.		Press-Herald

1

1

$

International Leisure cur- ntly operates the Flamingo		Glenn W. Pfeil Publisher
otel, fourth largest hotel on e Las Vegas "strip." this immer, though, it will play is trump card when it opens e Las Vegas International otel, a 30-story edifice which	the hotel as its guests and fur- n is hes such persons com- plimentary transportation and accommodations." It provides complimentary food and beve- rages to patrons of the casino.	Reid L. Bundy Editor and Co-Publisher Published Each Wednesday and Friday 3238 W. Sepulveda Blvd. Torrance, Calif. 90510