

Students Take Over Red Cross

More than 100 high school student leaders took over the Los Angeles Red Cross on Youth Administration Day and operated the organization's various services and programs throughout the community.

The Southern District Service Center in San Pedro was managed by Andy Lopez, San Pedro High, his assistant manager and administrative assistant were David Gonzales, and Patricia Spence respectively, also from San Pedro High.

Torrance High students, Nancy Kardos and Joan Gardner worked as blood program representative and receptionist respectively and participated in a bloodmobile operation at the ILWU Hall in Wilmington.

RED CROSS Service to military families was studied by Margaret Rabelo of San Pedro High and Katherine Burkett of Carson High. Gardena High students Cotilla and Wilma Lopez worked with the Red Cross nursing program. Participating in Red Cross Youth activities were Sheri Stern of San Pedro High and Lorna Munoz of Marymount.

Students from other Southern schools worked side by side with key Red Cross staff and volunteers at the Los Angeles Chapter headquarters at 1200 S. Vermont Ave. Rick Bradley, Banning High, was chapter manager; Mark Elliott, Narbonne High, was deputy manager; Jeffrey Jessop, San Pedro High, was region III deputy manager; Stanley Harmon, San Pedro High, was director of service to military families; Edmond Fields, San Pedro High, was Red Cross youth director; Barbara Wrahtz, Narbonne High, was vice chairman of volunteers.

ROSIE VOICH, Torrance High, was safety programs director; Renee Luciane, San Pedro High, was director of nursing programs; Alysia Lazo, Mary Star of the Sea, was on the public relations staff; and Jeff Trasker, Torrance High, worked in the print shop.

The purpose of the day, according to Donald Long, Red Cross youth program chairman for Los Angeles Chapter, is "to provide our young people an opportunity to learn by actual experience how Red Cross serves the local, national and international community." It will be an annual event.

Pay Dividend
