It could be within our hospi tal program or could be a new facility and would assist and treat young people up to 18 years of age for narcotics addiction.

I have suggested a Narcotics Information Project for South-west Los Angeles.

It calls for specially trained 18 and 19 year olds to work directly with parents, faculty, and students to prevent dangerous drugs from being used.

An an addition to the regular pep squad, a Bee and Cee cheerleading squad has been added to arouse spirit at the Bee and Cee sports. The five girls were: Anne Moore, Hel-en Evangelatos, Vicky Elliot, Sue Weatherman, and Gwen Steele

THE NEW song queens, af-ter trying out in front of the school, were voted on and these girls were selected: Gwen Magaro, Teri Gause-pohl, Alice Perereya, Shelley Ciscel, and Karen Coast.

The flag twirlers tried out in front of judges only last Thurs-day and the following girls were chosen: Cindy Pacheco, Wendy Ricketts, Stephanie Start Margaret, Stapenhors Wendy Ricketts, Stephanie Stout, Margaret Stapenhorst, and Penny Davidson.

Last but not least, the cheer leaders, with a surprise addi-tion, were announced. The three returning girls, Teri Powers, Nina Pattersen, and Powers, Nina Pattersen, and Debi Eisman were all voted in again for their second year on pep squad. They were joined by Penny Garella and Sam Sumpter which takes care of all the girls. The hurprise of the election was the choosing of Rick Mitchell as the sixth of Rick Mitchell as the sixth and only boy cheerleader this year. He's the first boy to make the squad in three year. 'G-Days' Slated For Job Hunters

"Jobs for Youth Month" is May 17 and 24, and June 7 the new name of the California State Employment Service's annual campaign to bring South Bay employers and young persons together for job interviews, according to Mat-thew Nadalin, manager of the California State Employment Service office at 1016 Sartori

Ave. Unti this year, the job-finding campaign was called Grad-uate Month and various Satur-days during the period were termed G-Days, when gradu-ating students seeking career jobs were interviewed by em-ployers in the Torrance office of the State Employment Service, Nadalin said.

"THIS YEAR, however, we invite both students who desire summer jobs only and gradu-ates looking for permanent jobs to register wieh us and to be interviewed by employers on one of the three Saturdays when we will remain open," Nadalin explained.

About 2,500 of the district's 6,-500 high school graduates are expected to seek permanent jobs and many of the remaining 4,000 will look for vacation period jobs.

ON THE THREE designated Saturdays, many employers will be provided with desks or booths for interviewing young job seekers, Nadalin said. Any employer needing entry-level permanent employes or sum mer help is urged to telephone the office. Interviewing facil-ities will be reserved for him on one or more of the Jobs for Youth days.

No fee is charged for this or any service to applicants or employers, Nadalin empha-sized. He said that 23 Califor-nia State Employment Service offices, including eight Youth one interviewed by employers
