Kanine Korner

By Francis X. Lohmann

Where would you bury a precious dog? I am thinking now of an Irish Setter whose coat was flame in the sunshine, and who, so far as I know, never entertained a mean or unkind thought. This setter is buried beneath a cherry tree, under four feet of garden loam, and at its proper season the cherry strews petals on the green lawn of his grave.

Beneath a cherry tree, or an apple; or any flowering shrub is an excellent place to bury a good dog. Beneath such trees, such shrubs, he slept in the drowsy summer, or gnawed at a flavorful bone, or perhaps he lifted his head to challenge some strange intruder. These are good places in life or in death.

Yet, it is a small matter. For if the dog be well remembered, if sometimes he leaps through your dreams actual as in life, eyes kindling, laughing, begging, it matters not at all where that dog sleeps.

ON A HILL, where the wind is unrebuked, and the trees are roaring, or beside a stream he knew in puppyhood, or somewhere in the flatness of a pasture land where most exhilarating cattle graze. It is all one to the dog, and all one to you, and nothing is gained and nothing lost, if memory lives. But there is one best place to bury a dog.

If you bury him in this spot, he will come to you when you call — come to you over the grill, dim frontiers of death, and down the well remembered path, and to your side again. And though you call a dozen living dogs to heel, they shall not growl at him, nor resent his coming; for he belongs there. People may scoff at you, people who see no lightest blade of grass bend by his footfall, people who hear no whimper, people who may never really have had a dog.

Smile at them, for you shall know something that is hidden from them, and which is well worth the knowing. The one best place to bury a beloved dog in is in the heart of his master!

BARKS AND YAPS — Bassett Hound Club of Southern California continues along the credit side of the ledger dispensing favorable exposure for the lop-eared, sad-eyed, short-legged but always so loveable basset hound. The club recently held its fourth annual specialty show and first puppy sweepstakes at Duarte Park in Duarte. Entry and special turn-out was excellent.

Fred MacMurray is an avid gordon setter fancier, baseball great Phil Rizzuto favors the collie and golf champ Arnold Palmer goes for the German shepherd breed of dog. It is now evident that by employing nutritional methods, the life expectancy of dogs with heart disease can be extended for several years.

It is doubtful if dogs recognize themselves in a mirror; you and I do because we have been taught to do so from childhood. In feeding eggs, allow your dog only the yellow yoke. Joe Collins president of the fast growing Precision Pen Co., is an avid poodle fancier and expects pups most any column now.

BREED OF THE WEEK — Irish Terrier. Many dog fanciers refer to the Irish terrier as "The poor man's sentinel, the farmer's bosom companion, and the gentlemen's favorite."

He adequately fills the bill in all three segments for he is a dog of tremendous versatility. Further, the Irish terrier is capable of catching most small game, can retrieve on land or water and served with distinction in both World Wars as a messenger and sentinel dog. Surprising as it may sound, he gallant little Irish terriers can be used successfully on game many times their own size.

The Irish terrier's conformation is much more streamlined in appearance than his cousins, the wirehaired fox terriers. The Irish terrier's symmetrical build and eye-pleasing red coat make him one of the best looking of the terrier breed.

The Irish terrier excels in playful peppiness, good nature and is an ideal guardian for children, a stylish and gentle companion for adults. The Irish terrier tips he scales at about 26 pounds and in height 18 inches.

Drivers' License

Renewals Should Begin Early, Director Says

Californians whose drivers' licenses will expire during the next five months can avoid an anticipated license renewal logjam by not waiting until their birthdays to renew their licenses.

Explaining the desirability of prompt action, Verne Orr, director of the Department of Motor Vehicles, said:

"Regular California drivers' licenses used to be good for five years. But effective Sept. 17, 1965, they were made renewable every four years. Therefore, beginning Sept. 17, 1969, the first group of drivers with expiring four year licenses will have to renew and the last group of drivers with expiring five year licenses will be renewing at the same time. During this year-long period of overlapping if everybody came in exactly on his birthday when the renewal is due, DMV would be handling close to a double load of license renewals. We intend to do this with a minimum increase in staff."

Orr said that many motorists can escape the overlap period by renewing early. "The law permits anyone to renew his license up to six months ahead of his 'renewal birthday' and still have his new license dated four years from that birthday," he said. "Anyone, whether his license expires in four years or in five, can avoid congestion at the renewal counters by visiting a DMV office today," he added.

Orr also reminded motorists that any driver who renews his license more than 90 days late will automatically be given the road test in addition to the written and eye tests, and will be issued a license good for only three years.

Off-Job Injuries Hit Peak

In the last 20 years workers in the community have suffered an increase of 33 per cent in the number of off-job injuries, the highest on record since 1945, according to Ruth Morgan, Red Cross safety programs chairman for Harbor area communities.

Through its first aid courses offered regularly, Red Cross gives special attention to the prevention of such accidents in industry as well as in the community, said Miss Morgan.

Red Cross first aid courses include instruction in wound care, bleeding control, artificial respiration, poison care, bone and joint injury care, burn care, care of minor injuries, and transportation of the injured.

Novice first aiders are invited to perfect their skills and develop safety consciousness by attending a standard first aid course at the Red Cross Service Center, 1499 W. First St., San Pedro, beginning Thursday, May 1, from 7 to 9:30 p.m.

Information and reservations can be obtained by calling the Red Cross.

Premiere To Honor Officials

Three Torrance civic leaders will be honored May 14 at the world premier of a new motion picture.

Mayor Albert Isen, Chamber of Commerce President George Ebert, and Chamber Executive Vice President J. Walker Owens will receive awards for "having given unselfishly to better their community."

The awards will be given by the Hollywood Chamber of Commerce at the premiere of "Krakatoa, East of Java." The premiere is being billed as a "Salute to Community Leaders."
