Retarded Children's Group to Give Awards

ANN LANDERS

Tell It Like It Is

Dear Ann Landers: This is for the lady who referred to her body as "the most precious gift she has for her bridegroom"—and to others who labor under this gross illusion.

When women stop thinking of their bodies as "gifts," men will cease to think of them as prizes to be won. One of the principal problems with our cultural setup is caused by the games people play. If a sexual relationship has any real significance it must be mutually desirable. Tell it like it is, will you please?—From Berkeley.

Dear Berkeley: Your thesis sounds solid, but close examination reveals a serious flaw. You completely disregard the instinctive role of the male as the aggressor.

Yes, I'm well aware that some dames are so aggressive a guy has to sleep with his track shoes on, but according to the accepted mores of our society, the male is still supposed to be the hunter and the female is his target.

Dear Ann Landers: Please tell me if "because he's my brother" is a good enough reason to insist on knowing every move my husband makes? His widowed sister lives across the street from us and her nosiness drives me crazy.

What she doesn't see from her window she telephones and asks about. "Whose car was out in front of your place from 8:30 till 11?" "You received a telegram this morning. Is everything all right?" "I saw the delivery boy from the drugstore ring your bell a few minutes ago. Is somebody sick?"

This evening was the last straw. She called a few minutes ago and said, "I saw Gerald leave the house in his good suit. Where did he go?"

Do I have the right to tell her to mind her own business! If you say so I'll do it.—Sick of Her.

Dear S.O.H.: Of course you have the right. But do you have the courage? Every time you answer a none-of-your-business type question you make it easier for her to ask the next one.

When you get really fed up you'll tell your sister-in-law off and that will end the inquisition or at least discourage her prying.

Dear Ann Landers: My husband is bright when it comes to his work, but he lacks common sense. Last night at mealtime he took a pill to help him diet and an antibiotic for a touch of dysentery. He then fixed himself a very stiff highball "to relax." After dinner he drank a can of beer and washed down two sleeping pills with a slug of bourbon, "to insure a good night's rest." I worry about him. He says I'm foolish. Am I?—Worry Wart.

Dear Wart: No. He is. Pills and alcohol can be a dangerous combination. Also some drugs should not be mixed. Your "bright" husband could wake up one morning and find himself shaking hands with St. Peter. Tell him he's playing with dynamite, and if he doesn't believe you check with a doctor.

If you have trouble getting along with your parents... If you can't get them to let you live your own life, send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Bugged by Parents? How to Get More Freedom." Send 50 cents in coin with your request and a long, stamped self-addressed envelope. Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of the Press-Herald, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Youth Band Plans Show On July 4

Los Caballeros Youth Band, official host band of the city of Carson, has announced plans for a Fourth of July fireworks show to raise funds for its yearly operations.

Members of the band currently are soliciting advertising from businessmen throughout the community.

Individual contributions also are being sought for the show program.

Funds raised from the fireworks show will be used to finance some 25 to 30 trips during the next year. The band, first organized in 1957, has travelled more than 5,000 miles representing the city of Carson in the past year.

Donations for the band may be sent to Walt Peale, Ways and Means Chairman, 19012 S. Annalee Ave., Gardena, 90247.

CONTRIBUTION... Presenting a coffee can containing more than $15 in change to Fred Mill (second from right) member of the board of directors of the United Way, is eighth-grader Rick Belzer, president of the Madrona Elementary School student body. Looking on are Tom McGuire (left), first semester president, and Carroll Newberry, principal. Madrona students decided to contribute the money to the United Way when they discovered that they had collected more money for a school dance than they spent.

Library To Help Shut-Ins

Plans for a new library service to persons confined to their homes have been announced by Russell J. West, city librarian.

The new library service is the result of proposals made to the library by the Torrance Youth Council, Senior Citizens' groups, and the city's Recreation Department.

Any resident of Torrance may telephone a request for a special title or subject, West explained. The library will provide a special delivery truck or mail the requested items.

West said all library items—books, magazines, phonograph records, art prints, and other audio materials—are available through the shut-in service. A collection of children's books in braille, collected by the Torrance Lioness Club, also is available.

War Dead Honored In Lomita

A memorial honoring Lomita servicemen who have lost their lives in Vietnam has been dedicated in Memorial Day ceremonies.

Located in the patio entrance at the Lomita Post Office, 25131 Narbonne Ave., the memorial lists the names of servicemen who have died in the Vietnam war.

The project was spearheaded by the Rotary Club of Lomita.

Servicemen named on the memorial include: Jerry D. Atkinson, USMC; Richard A. Baglio, USA; Perry Bozeman, USA; Michael B. Carter, USMC; John T. Carroll, USA; Michael F. Cook, USMC; Alan R. Guyman, USA; Richard L. Keller, USN; Robert R. Bohler, USA; Raymond D. McGlothlin, USA; Chester O'Brien, USMC; and John G. Turk, USMC.

Library Friends To Meet

Councilman Orin P. (Bud) Johnson will address members of the Friends of the Torrance Library tonight at their third annual meeting.

The session will be held at the Torrance Recreation Center, 3341 Torrance Blvd., at 8 p.m.

Johnson, while serving as assistant city manager, supervised the study which led the formation of the Torrance Library System. He will discuss future plans for the library, with emphasis on the proposed Civic Center Library.

During the meeting, new officers will be elected and proposed changes in the by-laws will be discussed.

CHECK AWARDS... Looking over plaques to be presented for service to the Southwest Association of Retarded Children are (from left) LeVane Forsythe, association president; Mrs. Dean Thurman and Mrs. Alfred Burke, awards committee members. The association will present awards at its annual meeting Saturday at the Indian Village Restaurant. Assemblyman L. E. (Larry) Townsend will be the featured speaker.

The group meets at the Culver Federal Savings and Loan Association's community room, Sepulveda Boulevard at Artesia, Manhattan Beach.

Orchestra Will Mark Birthday

The stage is all set for the 32nd annual birthday gala celebrating the founding of California's famed Junior Philharmonic Orchestra to be held in the Wilshire Ebell Theatre, 4401 W. Eighth St., Los Angeles, tonight at 8 o'clock, with founder-conductor Dr. Ernst Katz on the podium.

Gov. Ronald Reagan, the California State Legislature, and the Los Angeles City Council have set aside today as "Junior Philharmonic Orchestra Day."

To mark the occasion the JPO will bestow its annual Oscarite Awards in special ceremonies with award chairman and Hollywood columnist Miss May Mann officiating.

Profile: Rev. Hans Holborn Minister Will Take to The Beach for Summer

REV. HANS HOLBORN

Walden III is a youth center near the Redondo Beach pier. The center will be manned this summer by five area ministers who will lead discussions, arts and crafts projects, and other activities in an effort to reach the "beach crowd."

And the ministers won't just sit and wait for the kids to come to them. The Rev. Holborn said he and the other clergymen will actually take to the beach themselves in order to capture the interest of their young clientele.

More conservative minds might consider playing out of place anywhere but in a theater. But not the Rev. Holborn. Experimentation in worship would seem to be his watchword. He recently participated with other members of his congregation in presenting "The Human Condition," a critical drama which analyzes what the church is or isn't doing today. The sketch took the place of the Rev. Holborn's regular Sunday sermon. And, oddly enough, the Rev. Holborn took the role of the minister in the production.

Continuing with his nonconventional bent in worship, the Rev. Holborn will let the youth of the church take a free reign in presenting their brand of worship at the early service this Sunday. A guitar or two may well join in the joyful noise. And if the experiment works out, he may make the early youth service a regular occurrence next year.

The Rev. Holborn spent his own youth in the tiny hamlet of Cedar Grove, N.J., where he and a group of friends put out the town's only newspaper. When college time arrived, the future minister headed for Drew University in Madison, N.J., enthusiastic about becoming a social studies teacher. However, he found his interests slowly turning toward the ministry through his association with the local Methodist congregation.

After receiving his degree summa cum laude, Rev. Holborn went on to earn his bachelor of divinity at Drew, finishing magna cum laude. He was active in student government in both high school and college.

Following graduation, the young minister served a student parish and three full-time parishes in New Jersey before asking for transfer to California. He says there's a possibility he may be transferred again soon.

A native of Germany, the Rev. Holborn has that firm jaw and shock of blond hair so typical among the Germanic peoples. He really looks more like a German scientist than a minister, perhaps because both his father and grandfather

Solon to Speak At Association's Annual Meeting

Assemblyman L. E. (Larry) Townsend will address the members and guests of the Southwest Association for Retarded Children during their ninth annual Awards Banquet Saturday. Townsend is chairman of the Assembly's Child Health Committee.

The special event will be held at the Indian Village Restaurant with social hour scheduled for 6:30 p.m. and dinner at 7:30.

Serving as master-of-ceremonies for the program is Hugh Whitman, SWARC, board of directors.

Dancing to music by the Pacemakers will follow the program.

SPECIAL guests at the banquet will include LeVane Forsythe, association president; Stanley LeBon, California Council Retarded Children, president; Joseph Catanich, association executive director; and recipients of the plaques and certificates.

Award categories include: outstanding volunteer, outstanding citizen, outstanding member, outstanding industry and press awards for best overall coverage, best news story, and best feature article.

Additionally, five-year plaques are given to individuals and industries or businesses who have supported projects for the mentally retarded on a continuous basis. Those organizations or persons already holding five-year plaques will receive two-year or four-year bars in recognition of the additional period of time of support.

HAROLD RITZ, award banquet chairman, said this is the only opportunity the association has to publicly thank those people to whom it owes its support. The association receives no state or federal aid for the three training centers it operates and the organizations, industries, and individuals who help are its life's blood.

The awards banquet committee includes Ritz, Mrs. William Adams, Hugh Whitman, Mrs. Dean Thurman, Mrs. Cleo Barnes, and Mrs. Alfred Burke.

Tickets have been mailed to association members. Additional tickets may be purchased at SWARC headquarters in Torrance.

The Southwest Association for Retarded Children is a non-profit, non-secretarian organization serving 18 area cities.

Glee Club Headlines Concert

El Camino's Men's Glee Club, College Community Choir and soloists, ensembles and Brass and percussion groups will perform in concert in the college auditorium Friday at 8:30 p.m.

No admission will be charged.

Daniel Pinkham's 1968 composition "Canticle of Praise" will be performed by the choir along with "Ode to the Virginian Voyage" by Randall Thompson.

THE MEN'S Glee Club, under the direction of Crist Mikkelsen, will offer music from the renaissance period of the 16th Century to the present light music from musical comedy. Musical comedy highlights include music from "Man of La Mancha," "Oliver," "Sound of Music," "Carousel," "Guys and Dolls," and "Westside Story."

Ray Bengston, Taylor Thompson, Andee Heaberlin, Robert Mullins, Henry Cid, and Bill Davenport will be the soloists for the glee club performance.

Concert accompanists will be pianist Rosemarie Luthi and guitarist Will Brainard.
